Rabbis' Statement Defends Zionism; Local Men Sign

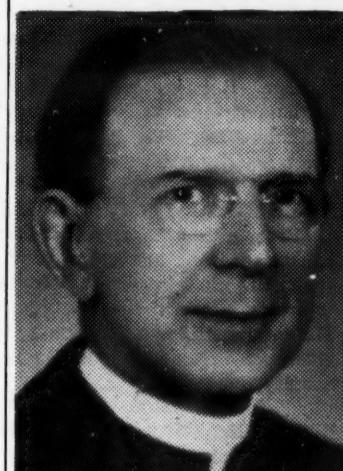

In an action said to be without precedent in the history of American Jewry, 733 rabbis including the heads of all the national rabbinical associations and drawn from all wings of religious Jewry in America, have issued a joint pronouncement severely rebuking Jewish opponents of Zionism as dealing a "cruel blow" to the Jewish people. The statement declares that "the defeat of Hitler will not itself normalize Jewish life in Europe" and points out that after the war "Europe will be so ravaged and war-torn that large masses of Jews will elect migration to Palestine as a solution of their personal problems."

Indianapolis and Indiana rabbis who signed the statement include Rabbi Israel Chodos and Rabbi Samuel Katz, of Indianapolis and Rabbis Garry J. August, Gary, Frederic A. Doppel, Ft. Wayne, A. J. Feinberg, Hammond, Albert M. Shulman, South Bend, and Meyer H. Simon of Lafayette.

Prominent among the signatories are Rabbi James G. Heller of Cincinnati president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis; Rabbi Louis M. Levitsky of Newark, president of the Rabbinical Assembly of America; Rabbi B. L. Levinthal of Philadelphia, member of the Praesidium of the

REV. ROY EWING VALE

Rev. R. E. Vale Speaks for Club

The Rev. Roy Ewing Vale, pastor of the Tabernacle Presbyterian Church, will be the principal speaker at the next meeting of the Beth El Men's Club to be held at 8 p. m. Thursday, Nov. 26 in Beth El Temple.

This meeting will be in the form of a Thanksgiving service to which the entire community Jewish and non-Jewish is invited. Also on the program are Rabbis Shapiro, Fruchter and Fox, who will take part in the service. Musical selections will be given on the new organ by a guest organist.

CITY HOST TO ZIONIST LEADERS FROM OHIO, WEST VIRGINIA AND STATE

Indianapolis was host to Zionist leaders from three states Sunday when the executive board of the Ohio Valley Zionist Region met at Kirshbaum Center. Albert Schiff, of Columbus, who ascended to the presidency of the Region when Rabbi Elias Charry, now of Germantown, Pa., resigned, presided.

After hearing a report from Dan Harrison on the constant growth in membership in the past few years, the Region laid plans for intensive drives in each District.

More than half of the $50,000 pledged for the Ohio Valley Region forest in Palestine has been subscribed in the first year, although three years was allowed for the fund raising, it was reported.

In addition to Indianapolis, the Ft. Wayne and South Bend Zionist Districts were reported at the meeting.

Zionists Here Add 34 Members, Fund Report Today

More than thirty workers in the current membership drive of the Indianapolis Zionist District will meet at 12:45 p. m. today at Miller's Restaurant for the final report in the campaign, with the goal of one hundred new members expected to be reached. A total of 34 new members were reported at the first meeting Tuesday, Lewis Levy and Sholem Ettinger, drive co-chairmen announced.

Topping the workers was Morris Frisch, who brought in ten paid applications for membership. The drive which is named in honor of Daniel Frisch, one of the leading Zionists of the United States, opened last Saturday night with the Chanikas Habias at the home of Bert Sicanoff.

Expressing the hope that the local Zionist District would become the largest Jewish organization in Indianapolis and the state, Dave Sablosky, president of the Indianapolis District, pointed out that the district boasted 412 paid members last year, and the success of the drive this early in the year, would put the local group near to this goal.

New members reported Tuesday were Alex Rabin, Ben Prince, Jerome Hammerman, Ralph Dayan, Harry Marcus, Morris Marer, David V. Maurer, Julius Maurer, Louis Weissman, Sam Dock, Dr. Archie Cohen, Ben Ehrlich, Joe Sandler, Isidore Marcus, Nelson Joseph, Henry Entin, Ben Sachs, Sol Blumenthal, Maurice Tavel, Sidney Stein, Lawrence Shaw, Charles Karsch, Ben Sagalowsky, Dr. Mortimer Mann, S. Levy, Louis Roth, Morris Leff, Morris Gold, H. R. Dorman, N. A. Ciner, Isaac Born and Bernard Cohen.

Gus Efroymson was convalescing this week at St. Vincent's Hospital after a minor operation last Saturday.

NEGOTIATE FOR NEW HOME FOR HILLEL AT I. U.; BUILDING FUND STARTED

Special

BLOOMINGTON—What in itself was one of the finest affairs ever held by a Hillel Foundation, the Pilgrimage to the Indiana University campus last week turned out to be a milestone in Indiana Hillel History when initial steps were taken for the purchase of a house for the foundation.

Located between the present house and the Pi Lambda Phi house, the new structure, whose cost is $13,000 is a three-story stone building, which has been used by a sorority here. The house will make an ideal Hillel House and will give Indiana University one of the finest Hillel Houses in the nation. The third floor is already equipped with a chapel and makes the building even more ideal.

The idea for the house came from Lou Becovitz, a staunch friend of Hillel, who tracked down the bargain and then in addition gave $500 to start the building fund. An additional $500 was forthcoming from Mr. Frankel, whose brother Rabbi Frankel was the founder of Hillel at the University of Illinois.

Services were conducted in the Aaron-Ruben funeral home by Rabbi Israel Chodos of Beth El Zedeck Hebrew Congregation, and Cantor Myro Glass. Burial was in Beth El cemetery.

Mr. Rosenberg came to Indianapolis in 1897 and entered the fur business in 1900. He was born Oct. 18, 1884.

He was a board member of Beth El Zedeck Temple, Ezras Achim and the Zionist organization, and was a deputy of the Progressive Order of the West Lodge and vice-president of the Indiana Furrier Organization. He also was a member of B'nai B'rith, Abraham Jacobs lodge, Indianapolis Aid Association, (Continued on Page 3)

Walter Lichtenstein Becomes Red Cross Aide

Walter Lichtenstein this week was being transferred to an army camp for several weeks' intensive training before going overseas as an Assistant Field Director of the Red Cross, his friends here learned. Walter, who was an agent for the John Hancock Life Ins. Co., has been attending the Red Cross school in Washington, D. C., for the past several weeks. Mrs. Lichtenstein, who has been in Washington, returned this week to Indianapolis.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goldberg, Mr. and Mrs. George Glazier of Anderson; Mr. and Mrs. Jack N. Gole, Arnold Mayer of (Continued on Page 3.)

The Town Crier

By G.

C.

FOR MORRIS FRISCH, turning in ten members in the present membership drive of the Indianapolis Zionist District brought more than mere glory. In his enthusiasm, Shoolem Ettinger, who is co-chairman of the drive, offered $5.00 to anyone bringing in ten members. Jacob Solotkin forthwith doubled the offer, and Dave Sablosky duplicated Shoolem's $5.00 inducement. At the first report meeting Mr. Frisch planked down $50, and collected $15 on the spot, with Mr. Sablosky yet to chip in. His eagerness not dulled one bit by scraping up the ten members, Mr. Frisch offered to bring in fifty new members, if the board would inscribe his name in the Jewish National Fund Book, which offer was promptly taken up. Town Crier believes that Mr. Frisch will get that Golden Book inscription.

* * *

TOWN CRIER attended the services at Camp Atterbury last Friday night, and saw with his own eyes the herculean job the Columbus and Shelbyville Jewish communities are doing. Although only about five or six families from Columbus really participate, that Jewish community has gone on week after week trying to make the Jewish soldiers feel at home. Although there were no complaints, it was obvious that soon some help must be forthcoming from elsewhere.

* * *

IF THE SITUATION in Louisville, which corresponds very closely to the one here, is any guide, then Indianapolis and other communities will have to pitch in and help. Fort Knox is thirty miles from Louisville, and yet a good deal of the activity of the Louisville Jewish community is concentrated at the USO Center at Radcliffe, Ky., near the Fort. The Louisville Mizrahi serves a strictly kosher meal for the soldiers at the camp one night a week (at last reports this was to be increased to two) and a weekly dance is held at the USO at Radcliffe with Louisville Jewish girls providing the female companionship.

* * *

ANOTHER HELP would be for cities like Anderson and Marion or Kokomo or Muncie, etc., which have no nearby soldiers to look after to sponsor affairs at Atterbury by proxy. In this manner, the Marion or Muncie communities would supply the whereabouts, and the affair would be known as being the deed of that community, although perhaps because of the distance no one from there would be present. Cleveland which has no soldiers near it, sponsors regular affairs at the Y. M. H. A. in Louisville for the Camp Knox and Bowman Field soldiers under this type of arrangement.

GARY—Bill Wexler, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wexler, left for Fort Harrison Wednesday, for active service in the army.

ROUND the STATE

GARY GIRL BROADCASTS OVER CHICAGO STATION

Miss Bobbe Chasson, of Gary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Chasson, had a leading part in a play which the Northwestern university radio play shop broadcast Sunday afternoon on a Chicago station. Miss Chasson is a sophomore in the school of Speech at the university, specializing in radio production. Before going to Northwestern, Miss Chasson won the Indiana state speech contest and was awarded a scholarship to Indiana State Teachers College, but refused it in order to continue her dramatic work.

FORMER SPEAKING CHAMP MAKES DEBATE TEAM

Brother Len Schroeter of Hammond, former national high school speaking champion, proved last weekend that he could make the jump to college debating when he and his teammates won first place in a series of intercollegiate debates on the University of Iowa campus. Brother Schroeter is the first freshman in the history of the university to win a place on the varsity debate team.

INDIANA SAMMIES PLEDGED TO BLUE KEY

Sol Blickman, S.A.M. president at Bloomington, and Sidney Cahn, its secretary, have been pledged to Blue Key, national service honorary. The fraternity has the only three active Jewish members on campus, since Fra Jud Frommer has been a member since this spring. Sigma Zeta now has sole Jewish representation in every major campus organization, including the Union Board, Student War Council, Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity and Theta Alpha Phi, national professional dramatics honorary.

GARY MAN REACHES PALESTINE

Brother Lt. Joseph Nelson, Gary, has achieved a long secret ambition. At present he is stationed somewhere in Palestine having reached that "land of honey" after a long and perilous trip through the Mediterranean. Brother Joe has always longed to visit Palestine and we know that he will long remember this occasion. We want to be among the first to hear from him when he returns to us, and may that be very, very soon.

SYNAGOGUE NOTES

Sabbath "VAYEZE"
Kislev 12th, 5703.

Weekly Portion: "VAYEZE."
Prophets: Genesis 28, 10-32, 3,
Hosea 12, 13-14, 10
Genesis 28, 13 and 14.

And, behold, the Lord stood beside him (Jacob) and said:

"I am the Lord, the G'd of Abraham, thy father, the G'd of Isaac. The land wherein thou liest, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed. And thy seed shall be as the dust of the earth, and thou shalt spread abroad to the west, to the east and to the north and to the south. And in thee and in thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blended."

"Hosea," 14, 2, 3 and 10.

Return, O, Israel, unto the Lord thy G'd; for thou hast stumbled in thine iniquity.

Take with you words and return unto the Lord; say unto Him: forgive all iniquity and accept that which is good; so will we render for bullocks the offering of our lips."

Whoso is wise, let him understand these things, whoso is prudent, let him know them.

For the ways of the Lord are right, and the just do walk in them; but transgressors do stumble therein.

AL SEGAL Speaks On

LETTER TO HITLER

No, Herr Hitler. . . But first, perhaps, I should explain that I am writing a letter to Hitler. I have just read what he said about you and me in a recent speech. He has said a great deal about you and me in the past and concerning these utterances I wouldn't bother to write him. Who barks back at a mad dog?

But what he recently said had to do with laughter and was a serious reflection on the capacity of Jews to keep on laughing. He said that Jews would forget how to laugh. He meant that the few who were left when he was through with Jews would never laugh again.

No, Herr Hitler! You may say that I, the Jew, seek to conquer the earth and that I, the Jew, am the blood-thirsty man who started this unspeakable slaughter called World War II and that I, the Jew, hold the wealth of the world. From all this I turn with disdain as I would from the guttersnipe who blew a spitball at me. Shall I go to quarrel with the gutter-snipe and descend into the gutter with him?

But when you say, that I, the Jew, will forget how to laugh you deny my philosophy and misunderstand my history. I must take issue with you in this matter as a man to whose abdomen laughter is an ancient experience. I, the Jew, have found laughter in my abdomen even when there was no food in it.

I, the Jew, forget how to laugh? I have laughed these thousands of years. Laughed at the dust of my oppressors, dust that the wind blew, dust of pomp, circumstance and power blowing in the wind. I have seen this dust and laughed as a man laughs who looks at divine comedy and understands it.

I who was weak and had no sword or chariot raised my head out of the darkness and in the light of another dawn always have beheld the dust of my oppressor blowing in the wind. It was no more than the dust that the housewife brushes with a rag from her window sill.

I have seen this comedy over and over and I have laughed but not with the laughter of the vengeful. I, the Jew, have laughed with the deep laughter of one who has been the everlasting witness to the comic art of God's ironic justice.

Yes, Herr Hitler, I have an old, old experience of laughing. The most exquisite pleasure of laughing is only for those who have lived a long time like me and have seen and heard the whole comedy. I have seen and heard it all in the thousands of years. . . . The pomp and terror of the mighty . . . their horses and their chariots . . . their glittering, swift swords . . . the fearful shouts of their voices . . . the agony of their slaves . . . and, after everything, the comic rubble of their towers, fortresses, castles and chariots fallen in a heap. A heap of dust in the desert of which the passerby said, "This was Pharaoh".

I was this passerby who saw the dust heap in the desert; I who was long ago the slave came to the dust heap that was once my master and I said: "This was Pharaoh", and I laughed.

I laughed with no pride of vain-glory or pride of privilege. I laughed at the comic circumstance that I who was the slave and had no weapon had in the fullness of time come upon the dust of the arrogance of my master who had the thousand chariots and the thousand horses and the thousands swords.

I laughed with deep laughter which the wind took up, and if you listen you may hear my laughter in the roar of the wind when it blows this dust in the desert.

I remember laughing in the time of Haman. I did not laugh with gloating at the sight of Haman on the gallows; I have a distaste for the sight of violent death and compassion for human error when it comes to its extremity by reason of its own faults.

I laughed not at Haman dying but at the cosmic humor that even in a few days turns the transgressor's plot against him and catches him in his own snare. I laughed at the swift lightning of justice that in the hour takes the arrogant and reduces his pride to self-pity and his cruelty to a whimpering for mercy.

I, the Jew, old, old man that I am, have seen this in all my times and have laughed. Not that in laughter I have felt better than other men; for I have my sins. I have wondered as I laughed: By what have I lived even unto this time, though the pomp and power of my persecutors is only this dust? What is my virtue that I merit this life? Why have I lived to laugh at the ancient dust heap in the desert? Why have I not perished under the swords which all my enemies have thrust at my heart?

I, who had no weapons but only a shield which I call the Law of God, written on parchment scrolls, and which, at times I have had in my heart—my ethical ideals, my awareness of God, my way of life, my faith in the ultimate justice that has been promised.

I do not pretend to be sure of the secret of my long life nor am I self-righteous enough to believe that I have lived by reason of superior virtue. But I shall live and will not forget to laugh. I shall laugh again.

I shall laugh on a day not far off. On that day people will dance on the streets of the United States. They will dance through the day, and night will fall and the black-out cities will burst into dazzling light again. Brighter even than the cities will be the eyes of the people illuminated by the vision of a world more just and lovely than they ever knew before.

They will shout: "It's all over!" . . . "End of Hitler!" . . . "No more Hitler!" . . . "No more Nazis" . . . "No more Lidice!" . . . "No more slaughter" . . . "Time for brotherhood" . . . "Time for justice" . . . "For loving-kindness". They will wonder where is Hitler? What's become of Hitler? They will ask, will Hitler be caught?

I shall laugh but my laughter will not be the croaking laughter of vengeance, I shall laugh with the laughter of an ancient man who is laughing again at the timeless comedy of arrogance being reduced to self pity and cruel power becoming the whimpering fugitive from justice.

COMMENT

That canard which the United Press circulated last week about the "resignation of Henry Morgenthau was inspired by political gossips who are trying to undermine the Secretary of the Treasury. . . . It's true that Morgenthau has evinced a genuine interest in the fate of homeless Jewry. . . . But the story that he was considering leadership in the Zionist Organization is cut out of whole cloth. . . . One of the silliest arguments against a Jewish army of stateless and Palestinian Jews was advanced recently by Major George Fielding Eliot, the military expert who last year predicted Russia's collapse within six weeks. . . . The Major says that a Jewish army would require time for training and equipping. . . . So what? What about the American boys in the American Army? Are they born with rifles on their shoulders?

IN THE AIR

Leonard Lyons reports the story of Monseigneur Chaptal, Auxiliary Bishop of Paris, who insists on wearing a yellow band and the Magen David on his sleeve as he walks the streets of the Nazi-occupied city. The most reverend gentleman's explanation for his voluntary identification with the non-Aryans is that not all of his grandparents were one hundred per cent Aryan. . . . Which reminds us of an incident reported by a reader of the Aufbau, the German-language refugee weekly. . . . It seems that a certain German Jew who had obtained his visa for America was helped greatly, if secretly, by an Aryan friend of long standing. As the refugee finally was enabled to board the train that would take him out of Naziland, he had a farewell meeting with his friend, and lamented his inability to do anything to express in a tangible way his appreciation for the aid he had received. And the Aryan said: "But there is a great favor you could do me. I would be very grateful to you if you'd sell me your Star of David band". Amazed, the Jew replied that of course he'd be glad to leave the "Jew badge" with his friend. "But what in the world do you want it for?" he asked. Replied the other, "After all, there's a possibility that Hitler may be overthrown here some day. And then this Jew badge will protect all who wear it." . . . P.S.: The Aryan insisted on paying two hundred Reichmarks for the Magen David.

READER'S GUIDE

It's too bad you couldn't read the original manuscript of S. J. Woolf's article on Weizmann, which appeared in the Magazine Section of the New York Times on November 1st. The published version was only an expurgated, greatly diluted piece. . . . Watch out for the forthcoming Saturday Evening Post piece on Justice Samuel Rosenman. It was written despite his protests. The Judge doesn't like publicity. . . . Publishers Simon and Schuster are wondering when they're going to have the complete manuscript of the autobiography Bernard M. Baruch promised them quite some years ago. So far only a couple of chapters have been turned in to them—no doubt because Baruch is so busy living his life that he has no time to write much about it.

MODERN TIMES

We wonder whether Michel Nostradamus, the sixteenth-century French Jewish physician who worked up quite a reputation as a soothsayer and prophet of things to come, foresaw that the time would come when a New York hotel would fix up a Nostradamus Room for the edification of its patrons, with the entertainment provided by fortune-tellers, astrologers and such. . . . Jacob Fishman, the Jewish morning Journal's popular columnist, is spending some of his spare time these days reading up on his Rambam, to oblige a feminine reader who had learned, through the paper, that the famous philosopher and physician had a cure for asthma, a disease with which she is afflicted. . . . The odd part of it is that the lady is the widow of a famous lung specialist, and her son is one of New York's prominent heart specialists.

Services at Ft. Harrison Open to Soldiers, Public

MEET THE PRESIDENT

ISADORE LEVIN

PRESIDENT AMERICA LODGE No. 901, HAMMOND

ONE who has been an indefatigable worker for many years in B'nai B'rith and local organization is Isadore Levin. By virtue of his record as past president of Knesseth Israel congregation and past commander of Post No. 3029 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, he was easily qualified for the presidency of America Lodge. In addition to being active in many civic projects he is a director of Beth-El Temple and a 32nd degree Mason.

Having served in World War I and seen active duty overseas, where he participated in the battles of San Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne, he devotes much of his energy toward the welfare of servicemen.

His devotion to worthy causes is superseded only by his devotion to his family, which includes his wife, his daughter, Sylvia, a graduate of the University of Illinois, and his son Marvin, who is studying engineering at the Aeronautical school at the University of Chicago.

A.Z.A. to Conduct Beth El Service

The A. Z. A. annual Sabbath Services will be conducted by the north side group, Chapter 246, tonight at 8:30 at Beth El Temple.

The sermon will be given by Gerald Paul, with the opening prayer by Abe Greenstein and the closing prayer by Jack Dorfman.

Over 400 chapters are participating in this religious event, the largest joint youth service in the world.

At a recent meeting of A. Z. A. chapter 246, Abe Greenstein was elected president; Allen Segal, vice-president; Jack Dorfman, secretary; and Harold Strauss, treasurer.

Annually for the past several years The Post has selected "Indiana's Jewish Man of the Year," with Ben Blumberg of Terre Haute and Irving Latz, now Capt. Irving Latz, of Fort Wayne, having been so honored in the past two years. For the first year of the designation, the staff of The Post made the selection, but last year a group of Jewish leaders throughout the state were polled and the titlist selected that way.

This year the same procedure was followed and the announcement will be made in the form of a write-up interview in our annual Chanukah edition. Each of the approximately fifty persons who were chosen to take part in the poll were given the privilege of naming three persons, with each named to receive a count of one, regardless of the order in which they were listed. So far almost all of the selections are in. The Post made no nominations whatsoever. What I mean is, The Post did not present a list and then say, "Select your choices from these persons."

Well just to make it interesting here is the complete list named so far. They are presented in alphabetical order

Reconstructionist, What Do You Say To This?

RECENTLY The Jewish Reconstructionist, in commenting off an editorial from The Post whose subject was the two services arranged at the Indiana University Hillel, instead of three, one for each of the three present-day divisions in Judaism, pointed out that the move may be a presentiment of the future development of American Judaism. In other words that there eventually might be only an Orthodox group, and a combination Reform-Conservative Group.

If, however, the Hillel experiment, can be said to provide a basis for conjecture or prophecy, then how about the experiment being tried on so wide a scale by the Jewish services in camps throughout the United States, and elsewhere.

In these services there is only the one rabbi, and only the one service. Yet there is probably yet to be registered the first complaint by a soldier with Orthodox upbringing and belief against a Reform service, or vice versa. In fact according to the records something like fifty out of the eight odd present-day Jewish chaplains are Reform rabbis, yet the services are attended and appreciated by all soldiers alike.

There is only one service, Mr. Reconstructionist. What do you say to this?

Secession in The Reform Rabbinate

WETHER or not "secession" is the accurate word, Rabbi Felix A. Levy of Emanuel Congregation in Chicago in announcing his sermon for last Friday night wrote: "Reform Jews in America are faced with a threat of secession by a group of leaders and their followers, who in the name of Americanism protest against what the majority holds and does."

Rabbi Levy refers of course to the group of ninety Reform rabbis, of which Rabbi Morris M. Feuerlicht of Indianapolis and Rabbi Milton Greenwald of Evansville are the only two representatives in Indiana, who joined together in opposition to Zionism after the body of which they are a part, the Central Conference of American Rabbis (Reform) adopted a resolution at its last convention favoring a Jewish Army.

Rabbi Levy's words are the first intimation that anything more serious than a fight for public opinion may result from the organization of the dissident Reform rabbis. Unquestionably the views of the two groups are diametrically opposed. In the statement issued last week by the 733 rabbis, including the heads of all the national rabbinical associations, these words are used: . . . "we nonetheless find every one of their contentions totally without foundation."

The news of the possible split will come as a shock to many. If carried out, the rift will certainly crystallize the bitter fight between the Zionists and non-Zionists and make it more than ever a public issue, especially in those communities where the ninety-odd rabbis occupy pulpits.

If however and perhaps even regardless, the anti-Zionist rabbis fail in this fight, anti-Zionism will disappear for years from the Jewish world as a militant stand, and Zionism will resume undisputed its place in Jewish life and liturgy.

Rabbi Scolds Members For Non Attendance

MANY rabbis with fragmentary attendances at services, mumble in their beards, and maintain with a feeling of guilt their all important pride.

But other rabbis, and in increasing numbers of late, speak out boldly and frankly to their congregants. In fact they scold them, treatment which is a hallmark too, of much of the courageous utterances of the Prophets.

It may be that scolding is bad technique, at least it is said to be so by our child psychologists. But are Jewish people children?

Nonetheless, here's what Rabbi Herman M. Cohen, of the Temple of Aaron in St. Paul, Minn., has to say to his congregation in his bulletin last week:

"A recent survey undertaken by a Jewish News Agency indicates that in some communities increased interest is shown in the Synagogue, although it cannot be definitely attributed to a more fervent religious feeling. However, one half of the Congregations included in the survey report either no increased attendance at Services, or a falling off of worshippers. This is indeed a sad commentary upon American Jewish religious life. It indicates that the indifference which the Jew has shown in the pre-war period has become deeply ingrained in our consciousness to the extent that we are not moved even by a shocking war crisis. We are unwilling to believe that the faith of our fathers, transmitted through countless generations is now impotent to move us.

"What is the experience in our Congregation? We regret to report that we are totally dissatisfied with Synagogue attendance on Friday evening. Last week, for example when we had a group of more than 50 visitors from Macalester College, our own Congregation should have been much larger to welcome the guests. It is a discredit to Jewish life to think that a Congregation in which more than one hundred families count at least one man in the armed forces, should not have hundreds of people at Services. We know the excuses which are given. Gas and tire rationing is coming and people want to train themselves to conserve. Some families are kept at home by emergencies such as illness. We are reliably informed, however, that many parties and social functions are held on Friday evening; that many people have no good reason for not coming to the Synagogue; and that many more really intend to come and feel that they should come, but they fail to translate their intentions into reality."

Current Comment

Jewish Defender of Courage Upheld by Army Officer.—A story that is currently regaling many of our Philadelphia co-religionists, and which once again manifests the Maccabean spirit that animates the young Jewish warriors of today, tells of an affront leveled at one of our townsmen that resulted in the immediate discomfiture of an anti-Semitic bully. A young scion of one of our well known families on applying for a transfer of service was asked by the examining officer what branch of the war effort he wished to enter. He answered, "The Air Service," upon which the examiner replied, "Why you are a Jew. You haven't the 'guts' for that kind of thing." The reply of our young warrior to this insulting remark was a quick uppercut to the detractor's jaw. The young man "without guts" was promptly arrested for this infraction of military regulations and haled before a commanding officer for examination and punishment. When an explanation was given to this official, the latter in reprimanding the doughty defender against a slur upon his race and courage asked the young man: "If you had come before me for this transfer, and I had said this to you, what would you have done?" "I would have done the same to you," was the answer. "Well," the chief is reported to have replied, "I wouldn't blame you," and exonerated the culprit. If the story as here related is not exactly in accordance with the facts, it is, at any rate, too good to go unrecorded.—Jewish Exponent.

Freedom of the Press

mutual friend Jack Finkelstein, formerly of Ft. Wayne and now of the U. S. Army.

The most interesting items however, were the editorial on the Chaplains at Camp Atterbury and the cooperation of the Columbus and Shelbyville Jewish communities, and the letter from John Sills of the Jewish Welfare Board commenting on your editorial of many months ago on the subject Serving Service Men, with due credit to the J.W.B. I wonder how many people saw the connection between the two items. When I went into Columbus several months ago to organize a JWB Army & Navy Committee, I was told by several local skeptics that it would never work. They said that the Jews in Columbus had never been able to work together, but they wished me luck and said they would help all they could. Well, the skeptics were wrong. The Kroots, the Trosses, the Rosenbushes, the Fromans, the Glassners, the Kaplans and the few other Jewish families have done a magnificent job. A few dropped by the wayside, but the rest have worked cheerfully and unselfishly for the soldiers at Camp Atterbury. The guiding hand was the JWB as it is in hundreds of communities, large and small, throughout the U. S.

Chaplains Evans, Donnelly and Hailey have been of invaluable assistance, and I am happy to call them my friends. With the Jewish Chaplain at the Camp the boys will have even better service and contacts with the community. Many thanks to the Post for writing about these things in its pages.

I am now in the process of organizing the Jewish Community in Charlotte and I hope that their response will be similar to that of Columbus, Shelbyville and Indianapolis.

RABBI POLACK THANKS VISITORS TO HILLEL PILGRIMAGE

To the editor,
In behalf of the student body of the Hillel Foundation at Indiana University we want to thank our many friends who made the B'nai B'rith Pilgrimage possible during the past weekend. We wish we could send a letter of thanks to each and every one of you who visited our Hillel House, attended the luncheon, and heard Dr. Sachar's lecture at the campus religious convocation. We were gratified by the attendance during the Pilgrimage.

Your concern in the welfare of Hillel is inspiring all of the students to work with greater zeal and devotion in the future.

We again want to thank the B'nai B'rith Indiana-Kentucky State Association, its officers, directors, lodges, and auxiliaries, for their splendid co-operation.

We trust that all of our endeavors in the future will merit the same degree of support.

HERMAN POLLACK,
